

ABSTRACT

A system is disclosed for determining the use of heating/cooling energy in a remote heat 5 exchanger. The temperature and pressure at either side of the heat exchanger are periodically monitored and the delta temperature times the square root of the pressure difference are accumulated for periodic transmission to a host computer for energy 10 use calculation.